

SEABASS

Would you love to search for treasures in the depths of the sea? Here's a jewel of a fish you'll just have to seek out. There are many varieties of Seabass available: Chilean, Baquetta, Black, and our regional favorite -- California White Seabass. The flavor of Seabass is generally mild and offers excellent dining with the simplest of recipes. Whole White Seabass has a bluish to gray skin with dark speckling. It ranges in size from 10 to 60 pounds and can reach a maximum length of 5 feet.

If you really like looking for treasures, you'll find a "gem" in the fish's head! This small white bone is found loose within the skull, makes pretty jewelry, and a great conversation trinket.
